WORKING IN A THRIVING ENVIRONMENT

The 'park' in our development's name is not some marketing weasel word.

We are creating a biodiverse landscape where those working on site can relax and recharge in more natural surroundings.

The park consists of several communal outdoor spaces which are a fantastic asset for any workplace. Not only does it provide a much-needed break from the work environment, but it also offers a variety of benefits for employees.

The presence of grass, trees, plants, flowers and comfortable furniture creates a peaceful and relaxing environment, allowing employees to recharge and return to work with a clear mind. This space can also be used for team-building activities, picnics, and other social events, helping to foster a sense of community and improving overall morale.

The communal outdoor space is an excellent investment for any workplace and can lead to increased productivity, job satisfaction, and employee well-being.

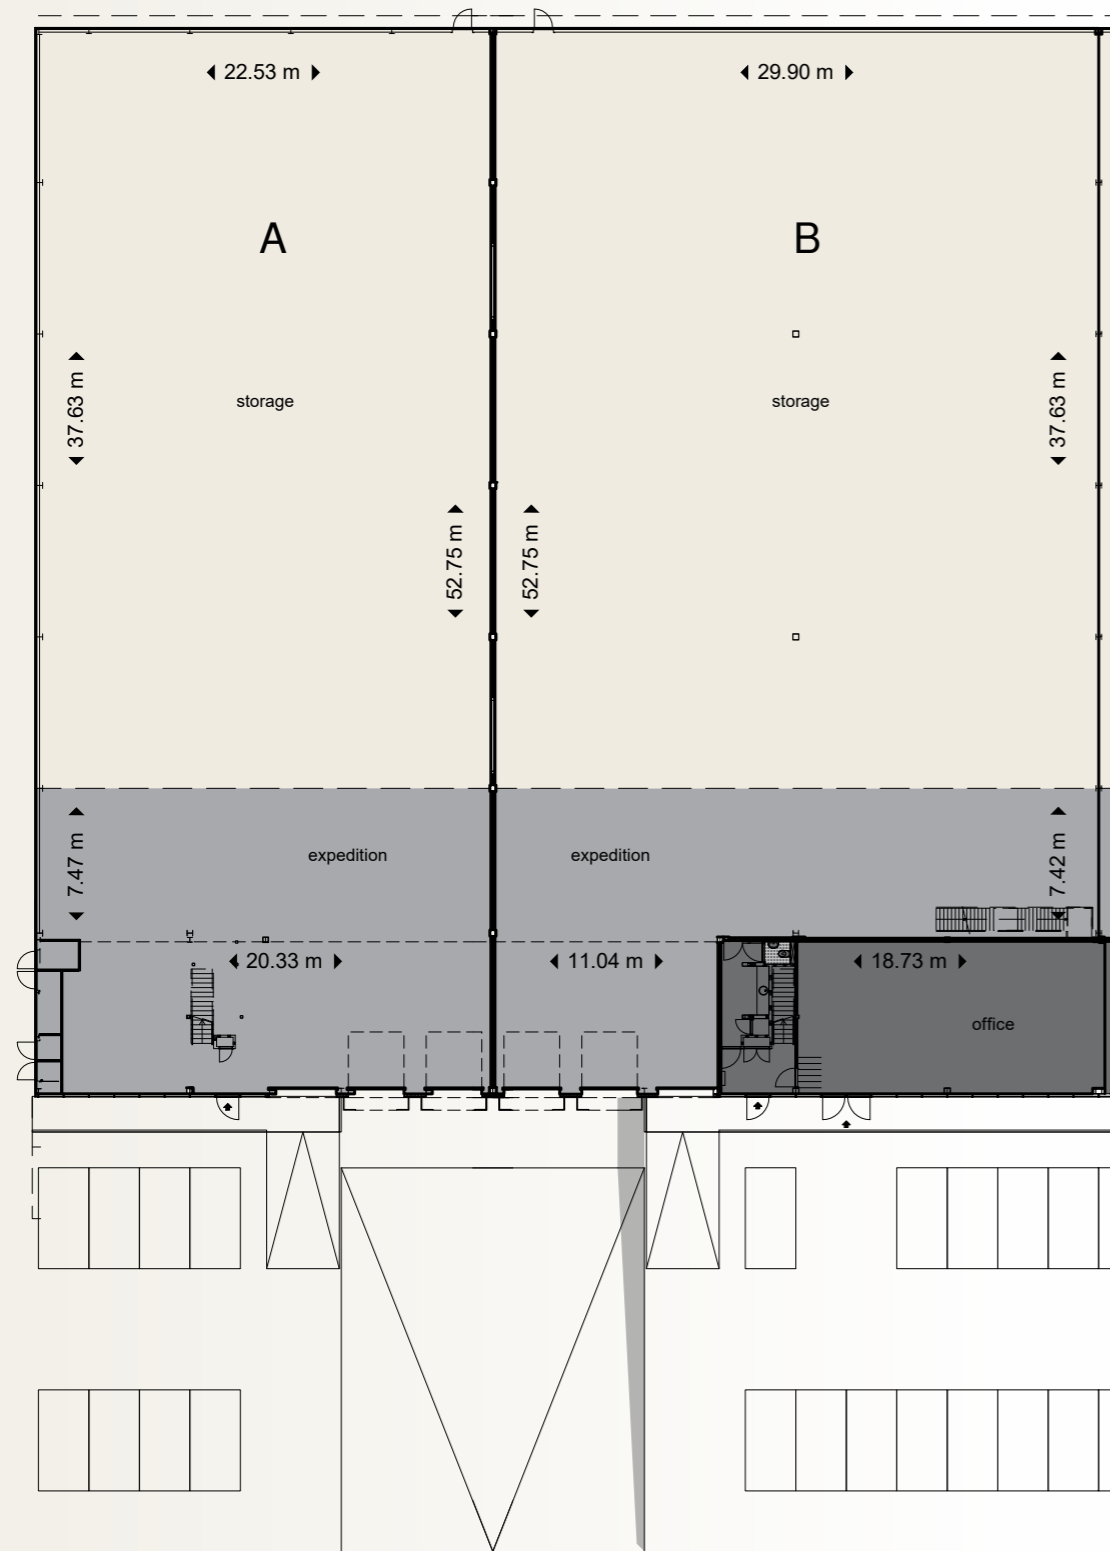

PROGRESS IS A THRIVING ENVIRONMENT

SEGRO has always attached great importance to developing all properties as sustainable as possible. But that does not go far enough for us. Responsible project development means more than optimizing the property itself; the site itself should also be put to the best possible use and create added value for our users and local residents. That's why we add a crucial factor: a healthy ecosystem.

That's why many of our sites, including Segro Logistics Centre Rijnlanderweg, feature insect hotels, nesting holes for native birds and beehives. With these measures, we are actively supporting species conservation and taking an important step towards maintaining a healthy ecosystem. A great side effect: delicious honey from the roofs of Segro Logistics Centre Rijnlanderweg.
